INTRODUCTION

Export is one of the most lucrative business activity in India. The trend of international trade in India shows a constant rise of export. International trade results from exchange of goods and service between countries. Foreign exchange is vital to any country. Self-sufficiency in foreign exchange has always been a problem to many countries and more so to a developing country.

Countries in the world is not considered self-sufficiency in all respects. It has to depend on imports which may be vital to the economy. The size of the foreign exchange reserve a country has include the strength of a country.

The government of India has been providing various incentives to exporters for earning valuable foreign exchange for meeting its requirement for importing technology and capital goods. The foreign exchange regulation have also been substantially liberalized for exports.

The importation and exportation of goods are subject to trade agreements between

Introduction

• Introduction to Microsoft Powerpoint.

Microsoft Powerpoint is a presentation software program developed by Microsoft. It is part of the Microsoft Office Suite and is widely used for creating slide-based presentations. In a broader sense, "Powerpoint" is often used colloquially to refer to any digital presentation created using similar software, regardless of the specific brand. The term "Powerpoint" has become synonymous with the act of creating and delivering visual presentations with slides, incorporating text, images, charts, graphs, and multimedia elements to convey information to an audience in a structured and engaging manner.

Powerpoint is widely used to create digital presentations that include slides with text, images, charts, graphs, and multimedia elements. Microsoft Powerpoint Suite is commonly employed for Review your Presentation.

Before finalizing your powerpoint, view every slide from beginning to end. Make sure it flows logically and presents information that appeals to your audience.

Consider changing the order of your slides to create a more seamless presentation.

Finally, look for and correct any grammatical or spelling errors, and check the functionality of your multimedia elements.
